ISG International Launches New Website

Interactive tools and additional online services among enhancements

CAMBRIDGE, MD – April 18, 2006 – ISG International, Inc. today announced the launch of its new agency website at www.isgintl.com.

The new site features interactive tools such as free home inventory software from the Insurance Information Institute and client access to their personalized customer service sites directly from the ISG home page. Along with navigational enhancements, up-to-date news feeds from the insurance industry and online customer service functions, the site also gives visitors a more in-depth look into the history and operations of Delmarva's fastest-rising insurance brokerage.

The firm's clients have the ability to file claims online 24/7, request certificates of insurance and get information on billing details associated with their policies. Information on the firm's newly announced Business Solutions offerings can be found online and Human Resources seminar schedules, which are open to the public, are posted on a regular basis.

"There are still many who see ISG as a large, international company – not realizing that we are based right here on Delmarva" notes Steve Robinson, president of ISG. "This new site does a nice job of making local residents more familiar with who we are and what we do for businesses and individuals right here on the Eastern Shore."
